

Seeking the Seminole Indians

Dr. Laurie Boulden,
Associate Professor of Elementary Education

Warner University

WARNER UNIVERSITY

“Providing lesson plans about the Seminole Indians with visual source materials for teachers”

Strategies and Methods

- Our first step is to gather a core group of teachers to visit locations in Central Florida relating to Seminole Indians. As we explore these locations, the teachers will develop lesson plans geared toward elementary studies of Native Americans.
- Our next step is to upload the lesson plans with source materials on TPS Teachers Network.
- The step after that is to train teachers in local districts to access and use the lesson plans.

Target Audience(s) and Focus Topic(s)

- This project is just beginning.
- Our focus is developing and disseminating lessons about Native American culture and history through the lens of the Seminole Indians. Lessons should be useful for grades 1-5, with strong connections to 4th grade's focus on Florida.

